Statement of Philosophy for Student Group Conduct: The Department of Campus Life empowers students to discover and define themselves and their communities through programming, advising, and resources. Our vision for where this work leads is students becoming better people who cultivate better communities. To these ends, Campus Life believes that students are always able to learn and make better communities when they are actively engaged and collaborated with in the process of holding their groups accountable through a conduct process focused on empowerment, transparency, education, timeliness, and repairing harm.

The following guide is broken down into five parts, and is intended to detail all aspects of the student group conduct process for all University stakeholders.

Part 1: Definition of Terms
Part 2: Adjudication Process
Part 3: Status and Standing Guidelines
Part 4: Medical Amnesty
Part 5: Appendices

Part 1: Definition of Terms

- Adjudication: A process by which a chapter/group, in partnership with staff or a standards board, comes to a conclusion on whether or not a chapter is responsible for violating policy.
- Alleged Violation: A violation that, based on circumstantial information, a chapter/group may have committed
- Campus Life (CL) Registered Group: An organization of students in community for a common cause and recognized by the University
- Case: All processes and documentation that occur after a chapter/group incident
- Fraternity/Sorority Life (FSL) Chapter: A Greek-letter social organization recognized by the University
- Hearing: A process by which a chapter/group shares its perspective on an incident and its alleged violation(s). The chapter/group will speak to what alleged violations in the case they feel they are or are not responsible for. The entity adjudicating a hearing will take into consideration the chapter/group’s statements and all other information connected to the incident to determine if it is more likely than not that the chapter/group is responsible for the alleged violation(s)
- Incident: An occurrence in which a chapter/group may have violated a policy
- Outcome: All sanctions, next steps, commitments, and chapter/group status and/or standing changes that result from the decisions reached at the conclusion of a case
- Preponderance of the Evidence: A more likely than not burden of proof that is utilized in the adjudication process to determine if a chapter is responsible for alleged policy violation(s)
- Standing: A chapter/group’s category of recognition with the University (i.e., Good Standing or Not in Good Standing)
• Status: The specific designation assigned to a chapter/group based on the violation(s) it has been found responsible for. A chapter/group’s status helps contextualize its standing

• Violation: An action that goes against the formally established expectations of a campus entity

Part 2: Adjudication Process

The following details how Fraternity/Sorority Life (FSL) Chapter and Campus Life (CL) Registered Group conduct cases will be adjudicated based on the nature of the alleged violation(s) connected to an incident. The following four approaches detail possible adjudication paths for FSL chapters and CL groups:

1. The FSL Standards Board (for FSL chapters only)

   Comprised of 5 Interfraternity Council (IFC) and 5 Women’s Panhellenic Association (WPA) Board Members; led by 2 Co-Chairs, one from IFC and one from WPA; Advised by the Associate Director for Campus Life - Fraternity/Sorority Life. The FSL Standards Board adjudicates and hears cases.

2. Administrative Review

   Adjudication and hearing conducted by a Campus Life staff member. This method will also be utilized to adjudicate all cases that do not go to the Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards for National Pan-Hellenic Council chapters, and the Alpha Psi Lambda co-ed Latinx fraternity.

3. Acceptance of Responsibility

   FSL chapter or CL group accepts responsibility to Campus Life staff for alleged violations before an incident reaches a hearing; a reason a chapter or group may choose this approach could be if the circumstances of the incident are objectively straight-forward with regards to who is responsible. Outcome(s) for these cases are determined by Campus Life staff outside of a hearing, incorporating input from the chapter/group. In an incident that includes more than one alleged violation, the chapter/group must claim responsibility for all violations in order for the case to not be heard via Administrative Review or the FSL Standards Board.

4. The University’s Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards (OSCCS)

   All appeals for case outcomes determined via the FSL Standards Board, Administrative Review, and Acceptance of Responsibility processes are heard by the Office of Student Conduct and Community Standards. Appeals for decisions reached by the OSCCS are heard by the Student Conduct Board. All appeals must be submitted within 14 days of a case’s outcome. Appeals should be submitted to the Assistant Director of the OSCCS, Dr. Kyle Williams (williamskyle@wustl.edu; 314-935-4929; 1 Brookings Drive, Campus Box #1250, St. Louis, MO 63130)
There are four violation categories that a chapter/group can be adjudicated under:

1. Campus Life Policy Violations

2. University Housing and Space violations (housing for IFC fraternities, and space for chapters/groups with Women’s Building Suites)

3. IFC Recruitment Infraction violations
   For these cases, the IFC Standards Board members will separately adjudicate these cases. WPA has its own internal process for addressing alleged recruitment infractions

4. Washington University in St. Louis Student Conduct Code violations
   To report a chapter or student group violation of policy you may contact staff in Campus Life or the Office or Student Conduct and Community Standards, or fill out the following OSCCS Student Conduct Incident Report form located on the following page: students.wustl.edu/student-conduct-community-standards

From these four categories, the FSL Standards Board, Administrative Review, and Acceptance of Responsibility processes will all address similar violations. These violations are detailed in depth in Appendices A-D, and summarized immediately below:

- Violations of Campus Life Policies
- Alcohol-related incidents
- Disruptive activity
- Structural damage
- Noise violations
- Violations of Student Union Policy or the Student Group Handbook
- Violations of FSL council recruitment policies

The OSCCS will address violations that are also detailed in depth in Appendices A-D, and summarized immediately below:

- Drug violations
- Acts of physical and sexual violence
- Hazing
- Bias Incidents
- Weapons
- Theft
- Most violations from the Student Code of Conduct
- Stalking

It should be noted that unless a case goes to the Office of Student Conduct and community standards, CL Registered Groups are only adjudicated through Administrative Review or Acceptance of Responsibility. Ideally, for FSL chapters, whenever these violations occur, it is the FSL Standards Board that will adjudicate. However, in the event that the FSL Standards Board is not able to adjudicate, Administrative Review will be used instead. Administrative Review may also be used in place of the FSL Standards Board per a chapter’s request. Additionally, Campus Life always reserves the ability to implement Administrative Review in place of the FSL Standards Board.

With consultation from the OSCCS, Campus Life may also adjudicate some cases that have alleged Student Conduct Code violations that span beyond Conduct Code violations that the FSL Standards Board, Administrative Review, or Acceptance of Responsibility processes would typically adjudicate.

When an incident is addressed by Campus Life, the following steps occur:

1) Chapter/group president will be notified of the incident and alleged policy violation(s)
2) Chapter/group president will meet with a Campus Life staff member, review the details of the case and alleged violations, and either accept responsibility for the violations on behalf of their organization or not accept responsibility and request a hearing
   a) If responsibility is claimed during this meeting, the Campus Life staff member and chapter/group president will collaborate to determine the case’s outcome. This outcome will be formally communicated to the chapter/group president in a letter
   b) If responsibility is not claimed during this meeting, the chapter/group president will then be required to attend a hearing with the FSL Standards Board (FSL chapters only) or Campus Life staff member for Administrative Review
   c) Following a hearing, an outcome letter will be issued to the president detailing what the chapter/group was found responsible for as well as any required follow up expectations and/or sanctions.
3) In all circumstances, Campus Life staff will prioritize providing formal communication regarding the progression of a case in a timely manner

Part 3: Status and Standing Guidelines

| Permitted and Unauthorized Chapter Operations will be determined on a case by case basis after an assessment by the University of the nature of the alleged offense(s). |
| Deferred Suspension | Not in Good Standing | The chapter/group’s suspension is deferred with various sanctions and requirements levied against the organization. The chapter/group is to suspend all aspects of chapter operations unless approved by its National Headquarters (FSL chapters) or University staff. Failure to adhere to the conditions of deferred suspension may result in the further enforcement of suspension, or expulsion. |

Please note the following important information in relation to the above stipulations for FSL chapters:

Unregistered Activities and Hard Alcohol: Unregistered social activities and events where hard alcohol is present pose a significant risk to both chapter members and guests. The nature of both violations is severe, and as a result, if a chapter is found responsible for either hosting an unregistered social activity or having hard alcohol present at an event or activity, the immediate steps will be a minimum of social probation and/or a monetary fine of at least $250 for the chapter. In the event that an FSL organization is found responsible for hard alcohol in its chapter house/suite and the incident is not connected to an activity or event that is social in nature, it is likely that the probation received by the chapter would be space/housing probation; a $250 fine is also possible in this situation.
Note the following stipulations regarding hard alcohol for FSL chapters created by the FSL Standards and Social Event Management Advisory Boards: If a chapter is found in violation of having hard alcohol at any registered or unregistered chapter social activity, governing FSL councils and chapters would be notified and chapters would be encouraged to consider not having social events with the organization found responsible for the hard alcohol violation.

Part 4: Medical Amnesty

Student safety and risk management are priorities of paramount concern. To support these priorities, the University’s Medical Amnesty protocol applies to chapters/groups as organizations, and is implemented in the following way:

If a member or guest is in need of medical support at an on-campus chapter/group event, it is imperative that the chapter/group take the initiative to call EST (on-campus) or 911 (off-campus) immediately.

With the exception of the below detailed infractions, when a chapter/group member calls EST/911 for a student in need, violations that may result from the incident will not count towards the chapter/group’s status in relation to social, space/housing or chapter/group probation. This amnesty applies for the first two incidents in a semester where EST/911 is called by a chapter/group member, and the chapter/group violated policy during the incident. Following each of these incidents, the follow up intervention done with the chapter/group would be solely educational in nature (i.e., no fines or steps towards social, space/housing or organizational probation). In the event that there is a third incident in which EST/911 has been called, and policy was again violated, the chapter/group at that point has clearly demonstrated a pattern of high-risk behavior. As a result, the chapter/group would then be subject to punitive sanctions such as social, space/housing, or organizational probation and/or a monetary fine.

Medical Amnesty does not apply in cases where chapters/groups eligible for protection from conduct sanctions commit violations characterized by the following:

- Causing physical harm
- Sexual assault or violence
- Property damage
- Distribution of drugs
- Hazing
- Other criminal activity

For reference, below is Washington University’s full Medical Amnesty and Active Bystander Protocol.
Washington University in St. Louis
Office of the Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs

Purpose
Washington University in St. Louis holds the safety and well-being of its students as essential to its mission. The University recognizes that, in alcohol related emergencies, the potential for University disciplinary action could act as a barrier to students who want to seek medical assistance for themselves or others. The Medical Amnesty and Active Bystander Protocol is designed to encourage students to seek medical care in an alcohol related emergency by reducing the potential barrier of University disciplinary consequences in certain circumstances.

Protocol
Subject to the other provisions of this protocol and unless the University determines there are special circumstances, when a student seeks aid for an individual experiencing an alcohol-related emergency by contacting emergency services, such as the Emergency Support Team (EST), the patient and the individual(s) reporting the emergency will not be subject to disciplinary action in the form of University student conduct sanctions for the presence, possession, or use of alcohol.

However, in all incidents involving an alcohol related emergency, the student may be subject to University student conduct sanctions for any other violation of the code of conduct.

Further, the student will be required to attend a wellness follow-up meeting with a University official and may be subject to mandatory wellness measures to further support that student. These wellness measures are not punitive; they are educational and intended to help the student.

If an organization, such as a student group or a fraternity or sorority, is involved and representatives or members of that organization call on behalf of a distressed student, that organization will be exempt from University disciplinary action, barring repeat offenses or other violations described below.

If a Washington University Police Department officer, Residential Life staff member, or other University official responds to an alcohol related emergency, they will first seek medical care for the patient before documenting any other information related to the incident. Throughout the entire incident, the patient’s prompt assessment, treatment, and transport to an appropriate medical facility will remain the priority.

An individual student or student organization that repeatedly contacts or is treated by emergency services, including EST, for alcohol-related emergencies may prompt further action from the University, and Medical Amnesty may not be extended.

Medical Amnesty applies both on and off campus. Students should note that this Medical Amnesty Protocol does not govern the response of local law enforcement agencies, including their response to emergency incidents or pursuit of criminal charges.

Medical Amnesty does not apply in cases where any student or student group eligible for protection from student conduct sanctions commits other violations, including but not limited to:

- Causing physical harm
- Sexual assault or violence
- Property damage
- Distribution of drugs
- Hazing
- Other criminal activity

Effective: May 11, 2015 Protocol adapted from similar guidelines at Georgetown University.
